

Today's Free Wall Art Prints:
Black & White Abstracts
by Don Berg

Today's Free Wall Art Prints

The images on these pages are wall art graphics in black, white and gray, in a variety of styles. They all will print at a size that fits a standard 11"x14" mat or any frame for an 8"x10" photo. You'll do best if you set your computer's printer to its highest quality and use matte or low-gloss photo paper.

DIY Suggestions

Although I tried to create images that are interesting enough to earn a spot on your wall, many of them can use your help. You're very welcome to customize them or use them as the start of your own art.

The sketches can be colored-in with pencils, markers, crayons or pastels. They can work as the start of watercolor or acrylic paintings. Print them on bond paper or thin watercolor paper. Use them to practice and to try new techniques.

The bold abstracts can be customized with pastels or acrylic paint. Color over the black lines or just add daubs of color. Print as many copies of your favorite image as you like on thin canvas or ink jet canvas. Experiment. Have fun.

If there is a composition that you really like, try projecting it on canvas or poster-sized paper with a digital projector. Or, make a print and use that on an opaque projector. Trace the image and use it as the start of your own masterpiece.

Enjoy! And, check back often. I'm always adding new prints.
